Caring for an autistic child

Seek a professional evaluation. If you have concerns that your child may be autistic. Start keeping a notebook or journal about your child. A diagnosis of autism will require a developmental history. You may be asked to fill out questionnaires which ask about behaviors and development. Writing things down on a regular basis will help [...]

Finding the right caregiver

A good checklist of items to look for in an in-home caregiver. Experience and Professionalism Caregivers need to be experienced in the area of your need, and caregivers need to be professional in the way they conduct business and provide service. You don't need a caregiver that you will need to motivate to work, to [...]
